ally be delivered by your family doctor, your baby can room with you, and we’ll make sure that your partner and family members are comfortable, too!

Peace of mind. Birthing Suites staff members are trained to work with families to take into account preferences for labor and birth.

CMH Diabetes Education Program receives national recognition

THE DIABETES EDUCATION PROGRAM at CMH has received continued recognition from the American Diabetes Association. The CMH Diabetes Education Program offers high quality education services to area patients and first received recognition in 2005 and the current recognition designation is effective through May 2019.

The ADA review is voluntary and assures that education programs have met the National Standards for Diabetes Self-Management Education Programs. The Diabetes Education program at CMH includes a registered nurse and registered dietitian, both certified as Diabetes Educators.

Assuring high quality education for patient self-care is one of the primary goals of the Education Recognition program. Through the support of the health care team and increased knowledge and awareness of diabetes, a patient can assume a major part of the responsibility for his/her diabetes management. Unnecessary hospital admissions and some of the acute and chronic complications of diabetes may be prevented through self-management education. CMH

The recognition process gives professionals a national standard by which to measure the quality of the services they provide and helps consumers identify these quality programs.”

CMH Lab Transfusion Services accredited

CMH LABORATORY has received accreditation for Transfusion Services by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB). Nikki Wilmes, MT (ASCP) is Director of Laboratory Services.

Accreditation follows an intensive on-site assessment by AABB assessors and establishes that the level of technical and administrative performance at CMH meets or exceeds the standards set by AABB. The AABB's accreditation is voluntary, but CMH sought this accreditation due to the level of professional and technical expertise that contributes to the quality of the institution's performance and the emphasis on patient safety. It will help to ensure the quality and safety of collection, processing, testing, distributing and administering of blood products. CMH
